Nature's Foundations 3
4 October - 8 November

Nature Foundation

Nature Foundation is an apolitical not-for-profit foundation that invests in conserving, restoring and protecting Australian landscapes, flora and fauna to ensure their survival for future generations.

The 2024 program saw a diverse group of artists selected, including mixed-media artist Mary Pulford from Adelaide, the Adelaide-based couple Tim Thomson and Rosana Cohen (a bronze sculptor and ceramicist, respectively), and Georgina Sambell from Victoria who has produced a range of oil and watercolour paintings. Each artist brings a unique perspective and is deeply inspired by nature's various forms.

During their stay at the remote reserves, the artists delve into the heart of nature, drawing inspiration from its myriad forms. Their work is a vivid reflection of the environments they've observed, and the connections they draw between nature conservation and nature-based art are truly inspiring.

Artists of the Month

October

Vera Dulic Mandala Painting

'I express myself through my art, particularly through mandala dotting, a practice that has become a deep passion of mine. As a child, I was captivated by the shifting colours in a kaleidoscope, an experience that has profoundly influenced my artistic journey. Although I only recently began creating mandalas, I quickly found myself deeply passionate and somewhat obsessed with the process.

For me, mandalas symbolize the perfection of the universe. I strive to convey a message of beauty and balance through my art. Nature often serves as my muse, offering endless inspiration through its beauty and diversity. My love for colours, along with the natural world, fuels my creativity and drives me to explore new dimensions in my work.'

November

Tim Shaw Glass

'I have been creating art glass all my adult life, and have achieved the title 'master glassblower'. Born in Cyprus, then raised and educated in the UK and the Netherlands, my life landed in South Australia where I have lived for three decades.

I exhibit across Australia and the world, providing me with the opportunity to share the passion, enthusiasm and experience I infuse into each created work, with a global audience.

My hot glass studio is nestled in the stringy bark forests of the Adelaide Hills, where my love of the natural world brings me daily inspiration. Most know me for the use of vibrant colours, and for the beauty of botanical references, in my work.'
